On behalf of the League of Women Voters of West Virginia I am requesting that you call a special session of the legislature to act on Marcellus Shale drilling legislation. Even if the DEP can regulate Marcellus Shale drilling to some extent under its present authority, the agency does not have enough inspectors to do the job. The DEP's proposed legislation would have provided through permit fees enough money to regulate the industry.

Also there are other problems associated with Marcellus Shale drilling that impact the residents in the areas where there are Marcellus Shale operations.

The gas will stay in the ground so there is no hurry to drill for it before we establish protections for West Virginians, our water, our air, and our land. Without protection we will end up with legacy costs that the state will have to pay for. We believe a moratorium should be set on further Marcellus Shale drilling until the legislature provides adequate protection.

Thank you for your consideration of this important issue.

Both Speakers of the House and Senate have called for a Special Session so lawmakers can look again at the Marcellus bill this year. But, the Governor says "Instead of calling a Special Session, I will be directing DEP Secretary Randy Huffman to use his inherent statutory power and rule-making authority to regulate this industry."

Hopefully, by the time you have received this newsletter the Governor will have relented to the pressure from citizens, but until then please call his Secretary at 304-558-2000 requesting a Special Session to regulate Marcellus Shale Drilling in our State.
